Cumulative Points above League Average
GOBias Industries: the 3-time Champion
- GOBias Industries cemented its reputation as one of the elite franchises in DKEHeads history, securing its 3rd title in 13 seasons.
- Schulwolf became the first owner to win 3 titles.
- GOBias Industries was a juggernaut the entire year, averaging 123.6 points per game in the regular season (+10.8 PPG above league average, 2nd of 12 teams) and 148.2 PPG in the playoffs.

- While arguably lacking big-name stars (no players like Saquon Barkley, Ja'Marr Chase or Lamar Jackson), GOBias Industries was blessed with a balanced roster that was strong across almost every position:
  - QB: 18.1 PPG (5th of 12 teams, +0.2 PPG above league average). This outcome was great for GOBias Industries, as they spent only $3 to acquire Jayden Daniels. Daniels also exploded for back-to-back +30 point performances in the playoffs.

- RB (top 2): 32.4 PPG (2nd of 12 teams, +4.3 PPG above league average) Schulwolf got excellent production from Jahmyr Gibbs (18.3 PPG) and James Cook (16.1 PPG).
- WR: 41.0 PPG (3rd of 12 teams, 5.3 PPG above league average): GOBias Industries rotated its WRs very effectively in response to injuries / trends. The most consistent producers were Terry McLaurin (12.8 PPG) and DeVonta Smith (12.7 PPG), but GOBias Industries was also got good production from Chris Godwin (16.1 PPG in weeks 1-7), Cooper Kupp (11.8 PPG), and Adam Thielen (15.5 PPG in weeks 14-17).
- TE: 6.6 PPG (12th of 12 teams, -2.1 PPG below league average): This was the only weak position, as Dalton Kincaid was disappointing.
- DEF: 9.8 PPG (2nd of 12 teams, +2.2 PPG above league average): GOBias Industries scored tons of points using the Denver D/ST (12.8 PPG in eight regular season starts)..
- K: 10.6 PPG (2nd of 12 teams, +1.6 PPG above league average): GOBias Industries' secret weapon was Dallas kicker Brandon Aubrey. Who knows, he might even be able to kick a +70 yard field goal next year.

GOBias Industries: A Paragon of Consistency

- GOBias Industries started the season with a bang, winning their first 4 games and averaging 129.1 PPG in that span.
- After a disappointing loss to "Brady come back u can blame it" in Week 5, GOBias Industries went on another 4-game winning streak to start the season 8-1.
- During the 8-1 start, GOBias Industries scored over +120 points 7 times and averaged 122.7 PPG.
- GOBias Industries struggled at times down the stretch (going 3-2 with 115.7 PPG from weeks 10-14, scoring +120 points just once in that span), but a 172.94 point bonanza in Week 15 showed that GOBias Industries meant business in the playoffs.
- GOBias Industries was the sixth team in DKEHeads history to win 11+ games (curiously, no team has ever won exactly 11 games).

Teams with +11 Wins, Regular Season
Team	Owner	Year	Record	Win %	Title?
GOBias Industries	Schulwolf	2024	12-3	80%	Yes
PurpleVector Reunion Tour	Kevin	2023	12-3	80%	No
Jasjaap's Primo Team	Jasjaap	2021	12-3	80%	No
GOBias Industries	Schulwolf	2017	12-2	86%	Yes
Schmop	Burnett	2016	12-2	86%	No
Herbin Legends	Brand	2012	12-2	86%	No

- Like all great champions, GOBias Industries elevated their game in the playoffs, crushing Mr. Fans Noodle Haus 149.72 - 104.68 in the semifinals before defeating Schmaap 146.68 - 121.06 in the final.
- Schulwolf is now 6-1 in playoff games and 3-0 in finals in four postseason appearances.

Schmaap: the Worthy Finalist
- Schmaap, everyone's favorite portmanteau, had a tremendous season, going 10-5 before falling to GOBias Industries in the final.
- Schmaap scored 121.5 points per game (4th of 12 teams), +8.8 PPG above league average.
- Similar to GOBias Industries, Schmaap had a very balanced roster, with no real weaknesses.
  - QB: 17.5 PPG (6th of 12 teams, -0.4 PPG vs. league average): Schmaap had solid production from Brock Purdy and Bo Nix. These bargain buys allowed Schmaap to invest in other parts of the roster.
  - RB (top 2): 31.9 PPG from top 2 RB (3rd of 12 teams, +3.8 PPG vs. league average): Schmaap relied on Josh Jacobs (16.5 PPG) and David Montgomery (14.6 PPG) to carry the load. Schmaap also got decent production from Rico Dowdle (11.2 PPG in games started). Schmaap suffered from a pathetic 3.0 PPG from Gus Edwards in weeks 1-4.
  - WR: 37.0 PPG from top 3 WR (5th of 12 teams, +1.3 PPG vs. league average): WR was a major weakness for Schmaap in the first half of the year

(just 27.1 PPG in weeks 1-7), but Puka Nacua's return from injury gave Schmaap a huge boost (45.7 PPG in weeks 8-15). Schmaap's main studs were Nacua (16.3 PPG from weeks 9-17) and CeeDee Lamb (14.2 PPG), while Jaylen Waddle was disappointing (8.7 PPG).
  - TE: 11.3 PPG (3rd of 12 teams, +2.6 PPG vs. league average): Brock Bowers was a revelation for Schmaap.
- Schmaap got off to a slow start, going 1-3 in their first 4 games, averaging only 99.0 PPG in that span (11th of 12 teams).
- With their backs to the wall, Schmaap reeled off 4 straight wins (127 PPG) to enter the league's top half at 5-3.
- With Puka back from injury, Schmaap surged in Weeks 11-14, averaging an astonishing 147.4 PPG in that stretch to improve to 10-4. This stretch (147.4 PPG) was the second-best 4-game run in the PPR era (see below).

Best 4-Game Point Stretches, PPR era (2021-2024)
Regular Season only
Team	Year	PPG	Weeks
GOBias Industries	2021	148.06	2-5
Schmaap	2024	147.41	11-14
Pay Dirt and Pylons	2021	146.04	11-14
Jasjaap's Primo Team	2021	145.63	11-14
Brady = Washed Up III	2021	140.98	4-7
Pay Dirt and Pylons IV	2024	140.59	2-5
Jasjaap's Primo Team	2021	139.27	3-6
Sackwash Lyfe	2024	138.26	12-15
Pay Dirt and Pylons	2021	136.93	1-4
Dak to Dak	2021	136.73	10-13

*Curiously, no teams from 2022 or 2023 on this list - parity was higher those years

Schmaap's Epic Surge (weeks 11-14)
- Unfortunately for Schmaap, the momentum wouldn't last. A devastating Week 15 Injury to David Montgomery severely hurt their title hopes (especially because this boosted the value of GOBias Industries' Jahymr Gibbs). Disaster struck again when CeeDee Lamb was shut down for the season after Week 16.
- Despite these setbacks, Schmaap remained competitive, edging Pierogi Night 119.72 - 103.1 in the semifinals before falling to GOBias Industries (121.06 - 146.68).
- Schmaap went 0-3 vs. GOBias Industries but 11-3 against the rest of the league.
- Schmaap made the playoffs despite a brutal schedule, as they had to face GOBias Industries, Sackwash Lyfe, and Pay Dirt & Pylons IV twice in the regular season.
- Burnett is now 3-1 in semifinals, but 0-3 in finals in DKEHeads.

Mr. Fans Noodle Haus: Strong Start, Late Season Fade
- Mr. Fans Noodle Haus had a successful season, qualifying for the playoffs for the first time since 2020.
- Mr. Fan scored 113.78 PPG in the regular season (6th of 12 teams, +1.06 PPG above league average).
- Mr. Fan looked like a juggernaut early in the season, starting the year 6-1 (averaging 121.7 PPG in that span, +10.9 PPG above league average).
- However, Mr. Fan struggled down the stretch, going 3-5 in the last 8 games (averaging 106.8 PPG, -7.6 PPG below league average).
- This -14.9 PPG drop between Weeks 1-7 and Weeks 8-15 was the worst in the league (see below).

Biggest Dip in Performance, Weeks 1-7 vs. Weeks 8-15
Team	Weeks 1-7	Weeks 8-15	Change
Mr. Fans Noodle Haus	121.7	106.8	-14.9
Herbin Legends	106.5	91.7	-14.8
New Drywall	127.3	122.8	-4.5
Pay Dirt & Pylons IV	124.6	122.2	-2.4
Grip Hamilton Memorial 5k	107.8	107.2	-0.6
8Chane	109.1	111.4	2.4
GOBias Industries	121.4	125.4	4.0
Bijan the second date	102.6	110.6	8.1
Brady come back u can blame it	101.2	111.0	9.8
Pierogi Night	108.0	120.9	12.9
Gee Whiz Darnell	92.6	108.6	16.0
Schmaap	107.0	134.2	27.2
Average	110.80	114.39	3.59

- Despite these difficulties, Mr. Fan eked into the playoffs with a key Week 15 win (124.80 - 79.44 over Gee Whiz Darnell).
- After a lackluster semifinal loss to GOBias Industries (104.68 -149.72), Mr. Fan erupted with their best performance of the year in the 3rd place game, defeating Pierogi Night 146.12 - 124.96.
- Mr. Fan had an imbalanced roster: very strong at QB, deep at RB, but very weak at WR:
  - QB: 24.3 PPG (1st of 12 teams, +6.4 PPG vs. league average): Lamar Jackson was sensational.
  - RB (top 2): 29.0 PPG (6th of 12 teams, +0.9 PPG vs. league average). Mr. Fan was deep at the position, having 3 quality running backs: Alvin Kamara (16.5 PPG), Jonathan Taylor (13.2 PPG in regular season, 16.2 PPG overall), and Brian Robinson (10.7 PPG). Mr. Fan had the 4th-most total points at the RB position (counting RBs 1-3).
  - WR (top 3): 27.8 PPG (12th of 12 teams, -7.9 PPG vs. league average). WR was a disaster for Mr. Fan. Tee Higgins (16.7 PPG) and Stefon Diggs (12.3 PPG) were great in limited action, but missed much of the season to injury. Amari

Cooper (7.2 PPG) was a bust. Christian Kirk also sucked. Jauan Jennings was ok (9.88 PPG in games started). Mr. Fan was forced to start players like Kayshon Boutte, Elijah Moore, Parker Washington, and DeMarcus Robinson, which is never a good sign.
- K: 10.7 PPG (1st of 12 teams, +1.8 PPG vs. league average): Ka'imi Fairbairn of Houston was excellent, scoring double digits in 10 of his first 13 games.

Pierogi Night: the Most Improbable of Comebacks
- Pierogi Night made the playoffs despite starting the year 1-6, winning 8 straight games to finish at 9-6.
- Pierogi Night was the second team in league history to make the playoffs after starting 1-6. (Gee Whiz Darnell in 2023 was the only other team to accomplish the feat).
- Pierogi Night scored 114.87 PPG in the regular season (5th of 12 teams, +2.15 PPG above league average).
- Pierogi Night was average at most positions, but was strong at RB because of Derrick Henry.
    - QB: 17.0 PPG (7th of 12 teams, -0.9 PPG vs. league average): Patrick Mahomes was disappointing this year, putting Pierogi Night in a big hole. Starting Matthew Stafford in the playoffs (7.6 PPG in Weeks 16-17), however, was still a mistake.
    - RB: 31.8 PPG (4th of 12 teams, +3.6 PPG vs. league average): Derrick Henry was a monster, averaging 18.6 PPG. Pierogi Night also got strong contributions from Kareem Hunt (13.0 PPG) and Chase Brown (16.7 PPG in games started). These unexpected surprises made up for the lack of production from Nick Chubb (8.8 PPG in games started).
    - WR: 35.7 PPG (6th of 12 teams, -0.0 PPG vs. league average): Pierogi Night's top WR star was Mike Evans (14.6 PPG), while Davante Adams (13.8 PPG) started slow but finished strong. Khalil Shakir provided good secondary production (10.1 PPG), but Tank Dell was a letdown (7.6 PPG).
- Pierogi Night's 8-game win streak to end the season was tied for the longest streak in the PPR era (2021-2024; see below), tying Pierogi Night from 2022.
    - The longest win streak in league history belongs to Schmop (11 wins, 2016).

Longest Win Streaks, PPR era (2021-2024)

Sackwash Lyfe: Points but no Playoffs

- Sackwash Lyfe was arguably the strongest team (statistically) in DKEHeads this year, leading the league in points in the regular season (124.9 PPG, 1st of 12 teams, +12.1 PPG above league baseline).
- Sackwash Lyfe was unlucky to go just 8-7; their expected record was 10-5 based on their point totals.
- Sackwash Lyfe was the 2nd best non-playoff team in league history, and the 10th best overall team. (Tommy has 4 of the 10 best teams in league history by regular season points, but 0 titles).
- Sackwash Lyfe was the 2nd-best team in the PPR era (2021-2024), trailing only Pay Dirt & Pylons (2021).

- Sackwash Lyfe was carried by this year's fantasy MVP Saquon Barkley, and real-life MVP candidate Josh Allen.
  - QB: 23.7 PPG (2nd of 12 teams, +5.8 PPG above league average). Josh Allen had another great season, punctuated by back-to-back +40 point efforts in Weeks 14-15.
  - RB (top 2): 37.0 PPG (1st of 12 teams, +8.9 PPG above league average): Saquon Barkley (21.0 PPG) broke fantasy as the #1 overall RB. Kyren Williams was also excellent (15.8 PPG), while Rachaad White (11.0 PPG) was a solid tertiary option.
  - WR (top 3): 31.9 PPG (10th of 12 teams, -3.9 PPG below league average): this was easily Sackwash Lyfe's weakest position. Malik Nabers was solid (13.4 PPG) but DK Metcalf (10.5 PPG) faded down the stretch. Xavier Worthy was inconsistent (7.8 PPG).
- Sackwash Lyfe began the season strong, starting 6-2 with 126.1 PPG.
- However, a four game losing streak dropped New Drywall to 6-6, sparking Tommy to change the team name back to Sackwash Lyfe. The squad averaged a (relatively) pedestrian 109.3 PPG in that span - but still very unlucky to go 0-4.
- Sackwash Lyfe exploded for 142.4 PPG in the final 3 weeks, but a devastating 171.5 - 162.78 loss to Schmaap in Week 14 effectively ended the season.

Pay Dirt & Pylons IV: Points but No Playoffs, Part II
- Pay Dirt & Pylons had a prolific season statistically (123.3 PPG, +10.6 PPG above league average, 3rd of 12 teams in total points) but failed to make the playoffs.
- Similar to Sackwash Lyfe, Pay Dirt finished 8-7, but should have had a record closer to 10-5.
- Pay Dirt started the season strong, going 5-1 in their first 6 games (131.0 PPG). This stretch was highlighted by a 176.78 point explosion in Week 5, the highest single-game score by any team this year.
- Pay Dirt continued to put up points after Week 6, (118.1 PPG in the last nine games), but suffered from inconsistency and bad luck, going 3-6 the rest of the way to finish 8-7.
- Pay Dirt & Pylons had an extremely strong roster:
  - QB: 21.1 PPG (3rd of 12 teams, +3.2 PPG above league average): Joe Burrow ($6) proved to be a good investment.
  - RB (top 2): 28.2 PPG (7th of 12 teams, +0.1 PPG above league average): Pay Dirt had some solid (if unspectacular) RBs, including Aaron Jones (13.3 PPG), D'Andre Swift (12.3 PPG) and JK Dobbins (13.7 PPG). Rhamondre Stevenson (8.9 PPG) was a depth piece.
  - WR (top 3): 41.8 PPG (2nd of 12 teams, +6.1 PPG above league average): Ja'Marr Chase was the #1 WR (20.3 PPG), Nico Collins dominated (14.7 PPG), while Jakobi Meyers (11.1 PPG in games started) flew under the radar. These successes made up for Brandon Aiyuk's lost season (7.1 PPG from weeks 1-7).
  - TE: 11.8 PPG (2nd of 12 teams, +3.1 PPG): Pay Dirt benefitted from a strong season by George Kittle.

- Pay Dirt & Pylons will regret losing twice to Herbin Legends (lowest scoring team in the league).
- Pay Dirt & Pylons IV was the 4th best non-playoff team in history (see above), and was the 4th best team in the PPR era (2021-2024; see below).

Grip Hamilton Memorial 5K: Lucky to be in Playoff Contention
- Grip Hamilton Memorial 5K spent most of the season in the playoff mix and finished 9-6, despite below-average scoring (107.4 PPG, -5.3 PPG below league average, 8th of 12 teams).
- Grip Hamilton went 9-6, but had the statistical profile of a 6-9 team.
- Grip Hamilton struggled at most positions but had decent RBs:
  - QB: 14.4 PPG (10th of 12 teams, -3.6 PPG below league average): CJ Stroud disappointed; a late-season pivot to Justin Herbert was also unsuccessful.
  - RB (top 2): 29.9 PPG (4th of 12 teams, +1.8 PPG above league average): Grip Hamilton had multiple strong pieces, including Joe Mixon (16.4 PPG), Chuba Hubbard (13.9 PPG), and Najee Harris (10.6 PPG). Grip Hamilton was able to overcome a Week 2 injury to Isiah Pacheco.
  - WR (top 3): 32.33 PPG (9th of 12 teams, -3.4 PPG below league average): Grip Hamilton had a few decent WRs, but no standouts. The top producers were George Pickens (10.7 PPG), Jordan Addison (12.3 PPG), and DeAndre Hopkins (10.5 PPG). Chris Olave (6.6 PPG, injury) was a major bust, while Marvin Harrison Jr. (9.4 PPG) did not live up to the hype.
  - DEF: 10.0 PPG (1st of 12 teams, +2.4 PPG above league average): Grip Hamilton led the league in D/ST points, relying on 11 (!) different teams in 15 weeks to find the best matchups.
- Grip Hamilton went 8-3 in their first 11 games, and appeared poised to make the playoffs at 9-5 entering Week 15.
- However, Grip Hamilton couldn't get past Herbin Legends in the season finale, losing 68 - 96.88 in their worst performance of the year.

8Chane: Strong Start, Strong Finish…but Midseason Mediocrity
- 8Chane had an inconsistent season, finishing 6-9 and scoring just below league average (110.33 PPG, 7th of 12 teams, -2.4 PPG below average).
- 8Chane started strongly, winning their first 2 games and ranking 2nd of 12 teams in scoring (131.4 PPG).
- However, the wheels soon fell off, as 8Chane went 2-9 with 103.6 PPG in the next 11 games (11th of 12 teams in scoring in that stretch).
- Suddenly, 8Chane found itself in Sacko contention. But 8Chane won a 133.78 - 132.52 thriller against "Bijan the second date" in Week 14 to salvage their season, and then played spoiler in Week 15 by defeating Pay Dirt & Pylons IV.
- The strength of 8Chane's roster was in their WRs; the rest of the team was average to below-average:
  - QB: 16.0 PPG (9th of 12 teams, -1.9 PPG below league average): 8Chane started the year with Dak Prescott (14.8 PPG), but switched to Sam Darnold (17.0 PPG) in midseason.
  - RB (top 2): 27.8 PPG (9th of 12 teams, -0.3 PPG below league average): De'Von Achane was a monster when Tua was healthy (15.0 PPG overall, 18.7 PPG with Tua), while James Conner (14.6 PPG) was a consistent performer. 8Chane had little RB depth beyond those two players. 8Chane held onto Jonathan Brooks the entire season, to no avail.
  - WR (top 3): 39.7 PPG (4th of 12 teams, +4.0 PPG above league average): 8Chane was very deep at WR. AJ Brown may not have lived up to his price tag, but was solid (13.9 PPG), while Brian Thomas (13.2 PPG) was a revelation. Darnell Mooney (11.4 PPG) and Calvin Ridley (9.9 PPG in games started) were solid options, while Deebo Samuel was a bust (7.8 PPG). 8Chane got 0.0 points from Diontae Johnson in both weeks 9 and 12.
  - DEF/ST: 5.5 PPG (11th of 12 teams, -2.1 PPG below league average): 8Chane struggled to pick good options at D/ST. Lowlights included -6 from LV in Week 3 (vs. CAR) and -5 from Chicago in Week 14 (vs. SF).
- 8Chane appeared in several nail-biters this year, taking part in the 4 tightest games in the league this season (and 5 of the top 6).

Bijan the Second Date: Studs and Duds
- Bijan the Second Date had a (relatively) unremarkable season. They briefly sniffed the playoffs at midseason (5-5 after 10 games), but were never serious contenders. At the same time, they never came close to the Sacko.
- Bijan the Second Date had a top-heavy roster, with several big-name stars (Jalen Hurts, Bijan Robinson, Justin Jefferson) but zero depth:
    - QB: 21.3 PPG (3rd of 12 teams, +3.3 PPG above league average): Jalen Hurts had another strong year.
    - RB (top 2): 23.2 PPG (10th of 12 teams, -4.9 PPG below league average): Bijan Robinson (16.7 PPG) justified his big price tag, but Eli's team had no other good RBs. Jordan Mason was fine early in the season (10.9 PPG) but the other RBs averaged only 4.3 PPG (Tyjae Spears, Gus Edwards, etc.). Yuck.
    - WR (top 3): 33.9 PPG (8th of 12 teams, -1.8 PPG below league average): Justin Jefferson (15.3 PPG) was an alpha, as expected, and DJ Moore was a solid secondary option (10.8 PPG). But Rome Odunze (7.4 PPG) disappointed and the other options were terrible.
    - DEF: 4.73 PPG (12th of 12 teams, -2.8 PPG below league average). Bijan the Second Date was extremely loyal to the New York Jets defense, starting NYJ every week this season (even on the bye).
- Strangely, Bijan the Second Date had its best scoring output of the season in a loss (132.52 in Week 14 vs. 8Chane).

Herbin Legends: The Team that Deserved the Sacko
- Herbin Legends scored the fewest points in the league this year, recording just 98.6 PPG (12th of 12 teams, -14.2 PPG below league average).
- Herbin Legends had holes throughout the roster (RB the lone decent spot):
    - QB: 11.2 PPG (12th of 12 teams, -6.8 PPG below average): Herbin Legends suffered from pathetic production at the QB position. The platoon of Anthony Richardson (11.1 PPG in starts) and Kirk Cousins (9.1 PPG in starts) was a disaster.
    - RB (top 2): 29.9 PPG (8th of 12 teams, -0.1 PPG below average): While Breece Hall (13.7 PPG) fell short of his price tag, Herbin Legends got solid production from Kenneth Walker (14.8 PPG) and Bucky Irving (12.3 PPG).
    - WR (top 3): 30.9 PPG (11th of 12 teams, -4.8 PPG below average): Garrett Wilson was serviceable (12.3 PPG) but Michael Pittman (7.4) and Keenan Allen (8.1) were disappointing. Jameson Williams (10.9 PPG) was a pleasant surprise, but overall this was a weak position for Brand.
- Herbin Legends began the year with a 139.68 point bonanza in Week 1, but scored only 95.6 PPG in the next 14 games.
- Herbin Legends hit a new low in Week 14, scoring an abysmal 48.46 points in Week 14, thanks to a couple of last-second DNPs. This 48.46 point effort was the worst performance in the PPR era (2021-2024), and the lowest output since 2020 (since 28.7 points from Jasjaap's Primo Team, Week 12).

- In the early years of DKEHeads, Herbin Legends was consistently one of the best teams in the league, scoring at least +5.0 PPG above league average each season from 2012-2015.
- However, med school and residency have taken a toll. In the past few years, Herbin Legends has become one of the worst franchises in the league, finishing -8.8 PPG below average or worse in each of the last 3 seasons.

Gee Whiz Darnell: The Team that Deserved the Sacko, Part II

Gee Whiz Darnell threw away their season in the first 5 minutes of the draft, wasting nearly $150 to acquire Christian McCaffrey and Tyreek Hill. Gee Whiz Darnell staggered to an 11th place finish and scored only 101.1 PPG (11th of 12 teams, -11.6 PPG vs. league baseline).

Gee Whiz Darnell's roster was okay at most positions, but horrendous at RB:

- QB: 16.0 PPG (8th of 12 teams, -1.0 PPG vs. league average). Gee Whiz astutely picked up Baker Mayfield (19.5 PPG in ten starts) on waivers after drafting Trevor Lawrence and Aaron Rodgers. Besides Baker, Gee Whiz was too cute and made bad start decisions (Derek Carr, Daniel Jones, Tua) the other five weeks.
- RB (top 2): 17.8 PPG (12th of 12 teams, -10.3 PPG vs. league average). Gee Whiz struggled mightily at RB with McCaffrey sidelined. Gee Whiz's top producers were Tyrone Tracy (9.8 PPG in starts), Jerome Ford (9.9 PPG in five starts), and McCaffrey (8.1 PPG in five starts). Gross.
- WR (top 3): 34.5 PPG (7th of 12 teams, -1.3 PPG vs. league average). Tyreek Hill (11.5 PPG) was one of the biggest busts of the season. Courtland Sutton (14.1 PPG) surprisingly was Gee Whiz's highest-scoring receiver. Jayden Reed (12.1 PPG in starts) and Zay Flowers (9.9 PPG in starts) were ok but inconsistent.
- TE: 12.3 PPG (1st of 12 teams, +3.7 PPG vs. league average). Gee Whiz benefitted from both Trey McBride's consistency (10.9 PPG) and a late season surge from Jonnu Smith (17.6 PPG (!) from Weeks 11-15).

Gee Whiz Darnell was dreadful in the first half of the season, starting 1-6 and scoring only 92.6 PPG in that stretch (-18.2 PPG below league average). It was the 8th worst ever start to a season. Gee Whiz recovered in midseason (averaging 108.6 PPG the rest of the season and going 3-1 from Weeks 9-12), doing just enough to survive the Sacko.

Brady come back u can blame it: From First to Worst

After winning his second DKEHeads title in 2023, Will crashed down to earth and "earned" the Sacko in 2024. Brady come back u can blame it… did not light up the scoreboard (106.5 PPG, 10th of 12 teams, -6.3 PPG vs. league average) but was unfortunate to finish with a terrible 3-12 record. (The metrics suggest Brady come back u can blame it… should have finished around 6-9).

Brady come back u can blame it… surprisingly led the league in WR scoring, but was weak at other positions:

- QB: 13.7 PPG (11th of 12 teams, -3.6 PPG vs. league average). Geno Smith (16.7 PPG in 7 starts) was decent, but Will suffered from Caleb Williams's poor rookie year (11.8 PPG in 7 starts).
- RB (top 2): 20.4 PPG (11th of 12 teams, -7.7 PPG vs. league average): Travis Etienne (7.7 PPG) was arguably the biggest bust of the season. Tony Pollard (11.2 PPG in 7 starts) was a good late season pickup, Zach Charbonnet had several excellent games (14.5 PPG in 7 starts), and Austin Ekeler provided depth (9.1 PPG). But Etienne's disappearing act was a crushing blow.
- WR (top 3): 42.2 PPG (1st of 12 teams, +6.5 PPG vs. league average): it's shocking that the Sacko recipient led the league in a position as important as WR. Will had awesome depth at WR, including Amon-Ra St. Brown (15.4 PPG), Drake London (12.3 PPG), Jaxon Smith-Njigba (11.6 PPG), and Ladd McConkey (11.1 PPG).
- TE: 8.8 PPG (5th of 12 teams, +0.1 PPG vs. league average). Travis Kelce (8.8 PPG) was "washed up" for most of the season. With a star as big as Kelce at TE, finishing at league average was very disappointing. Week 1 waiver wire sensation Isaiah Likely contributed nothing.
- K: 7.0 PPG (12th of 12 teams, -2.0 PPG vs. league average): Will's team was last in the league in kicking points. Jason Myers and Jake Moody were both underwhelming.

Brady come back u can blame it… started the year with a dreadful 67.42 point performance in Week 1. It was the worst Week 1 performance of any team in the PPR era (2021-2024) and the worst since 2019.

Will rebounded a bit, splitting his next four games to improve to 2-3. But a six-game losing streak dropped the Brady bunch to last place at 2-9. A Week 12 win gave the squad some hope, but Will lost his last 3 games (opponents scored +130 points in each game) en route to Sacko humiliation.

Will's team was very unlucky in the second half of the season, scoring 115.8 PPG from Weeks 10-15 (+1.7 PPG vs. league average) but going just 1-5 in that span.

Brady come back u can blame it… was the 3rd best Sacko team of all time (see table below). Small consolation after a miserable campaign.

- Top Score of the Year: Pay Dirt & Pylons IV, 176.78 points in Week 5
  - The Cincinnati Bengals lost to Baltimore 41-38, but their players (Joe Burrow with 33.78 points and Ja'Marr Chase with 36.3 points) delivered Pay Dirt & Pylons IV a big win.

- ○ Pay Dirt got 82.8 points from four WRs – Ja'Marr Chase (36.3), Brandon Aiyuk (18.7), Nico Collins (14.8), Wan'Dale Robinson (13.0)
  - ○ Pay Dirt also received production from D'Andre Swift (19.0), George Kittle (16.4), and Chicago D/ST (15.0).
- ● Worst Score of the Year: Herbin Legends, 48.46 points in Week 14
  - ○ Herbin Legends started only 8 healthy players and got -5 from the Arizona D/ST (vs. Seattle)
  - ○ Kenneth Walker and Breece Hall were left in lineups despite being injured, leaving a massive hole at RB. Bucky Irving contributed just 2.3 points.
- ● Top-Scoring Matchup: Schmaap def. Sackwash Lyfe, 171.50 - 162.78 in Week 14
  - ○ In arguably the best game of the season, Schmaap outlasted Sackwash Lyfe and essentially ended Tommy's playoff hopes.
  - ○ The win was sweet revenge for Schmaap after getting blown out by 86 points by Sackwash Lyfe earlier in the season (see "Biggest Blowout" bullet below).
  - ○ Schmaap had amazing production from all six RBs/WRs, led by Puka Nacua (35.8). CeeDee Lamb (18.4), Jaylen Waddle (16.4), Josh Jacobs (24.6), David Montgomery (16.9), and Rico Dowdle (14.6) all scored double-digit points.
  - ○ Sackwash Lyfe lost despite an epic performance by Josh Allen (51.88 points vs. LAR).
  - ○ Schmaap and Sackwash Lyfe combined for 334.28 points, making this the highest-scoring matchup in league history. The previous high was set in 2021 (Pay Dirt & Pylons def. Herbin Legends 187.22 - 137.92 for 325.14 combined points).
- ● Lowest-Scoring Matchup: Grip Hamilton Memorial 5K def. Gee Whiz Darnell, 71.50 - 64.18 in Week 3
  - ○ Grip Hamilton Memorial 5K prevailed despite starting only 8 healthy players
  - ○ Only one player from Gee Whiz Darnell (Tyler Bass, 11 points) scored double-digit points.
  - ○ This game was easily the lowest-scoring contest in the PPR era (2021 - 2024), with just 135.68 combined points. Previously, the lowest combined point total was 155.04 (Pierogi Night vs. Movin' On Up, 2022).
- ● Tightest Game: Pierogi Night def. 8Chane, 95.74 - 95.54 in Week 11 (+0.2 points)
  - ○ Pierogi Night barely eked by 8Chane on Monday Night Football, as 9.4 points from Tank Dell and Jake Ferguson were just enough to secure the victory.
- ● Biggest Blowout: Sackwash Lyfe def. Schmaap, 168.42 - 81.58 in Week 3 (+86.84 points)
  - ○ Sackwash Lyfe had three different players exceed +30 points (Josh Allen vs. JAX, Saquon Barkley vs. NO, Kyren Williams vs. SF)
  - ○ Schmaap had three players score 1 point or fewer (Gus Edwards 0.9, Jake Elliott 1.0, Rashid Shaheed 0.0).

Simulations

- I simulated the season 100,000 times to estimate the "expected record" of each team given their actual point totals. Results below:

Season Simulations (Random Model)
Team	Expected Wins	Expected Losses	Actual Record	Total Points	Playoffs (% of sims)	Top (% of sims)	Sacko (% of sims)	Diff. Wins (Act-Exp)
Sackwash Lyfe	10.1	4.9	8-7	1872.86	81%	29%	0%	-2.1
GOBias Industries	9.8	5.2	12-3	1853.38	76%	23%	0%	2.2
Pay Dirt & Pylons IV	9.8	5.2	8-7	1849.30	75%	22%	0%	-1.8
